LOCAL BREVITIES

Fine weather for gathering corn but there is not much of it to be gathered.

Don't forget L. N. Sisco when you want groceries, tinware, and glassware.

John Morse is the shrewdest trader in Marion; Harry Carnahan will testify to this fact.

A social given by Miss Nettie Moore last Saturday night was largely attended, and all present enjoyed themselves highly.

G. Gregory has been appointed postmaster at Treadwater in the place of H. D. McChesney, who resigned. The latter will move to Salem and go into the dry goods business.

Mr. Louis Curry, of Morganfield, was in town last week. Mr. Curry wants the same position that Sam Nunn does—Deputy Warden of the branch penitentiary at Eddyville. He is a clever nice gentleman, but he will have to hustle if he beats Sam, who has the unanimous support of old Crittenden.

The bank building is rapidly approaching completion. The brick work is finished; John McCoy, of Princeton, put the tin roof on this week, and now the carpenter contractors—Messrs John Weldon and Geo. Boston are getting in their work in good shape. The building is an ornament to the town.

Quarterly Meeting.
The first quarterly meeting of the Marion circuit will be held at Siloam next Saturday and Sunday.

Two Fingers Gone.
While working with the well drill last week, Mr. W. H. Graham accidentally got his hand in the wrong place and it was savagely mangled. One finger was mangled entirely off, and two more were badly injured.

Resigned.
Mr. John T. Franks, of Marion, has had all of the railway mail service that he wants. Four months ago he was appointed and entered upon the run from Paducah to St. Louis. Last week he tendered his resignation. "It is a tough job from start to finish," says John, "and four months will do me a lifetime."

J. W. Adams, Jailer.
Monday County Judge Moore appointed Mr. J. W. Adams, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Jailer Cook. The appointment is an excellent one. Mr. Adams has twice been a candidate for the office, but was each time defeated. He is an honest, hardworking man, and a deserving one, will make a good jailer. Next August the office will be filled by an election.

DEATHS.
The county Jailer W. L. Cook, died at the jailer's residence in Marion, Sunday afternoon Nov. 30. He had been in poor health for a long time and was confined to his bed for four weeks previous to his death. Three years ago he injured his hand while at work on the railroad, and suffered a great deal with it, and his health gave way under this injury and it indirectly led to his death. He leaves a wife and two little children, and a large circle of friends to mourn his demise.

Mrs. John Adams died at her home near Francis, Saturday, Nov. 29, 1890.

His Neighbors Speak.
To whom this may concern:
Calvert City, Ky. Nov. 22.—There is a report in Crittenden county, in and around Dunn Springs church, that Bro. Green, of Marshall county, was not respected in his own neighborhood, and we whose names are subscribed below, and some of us have known him for the last 20 years, never knew that Bro. Green ever did anything to lower him beneath the dignity of a Christian, and we endorse him to you as a Christian and an honorable citizen and gentleman.

Notice to the Public.
MR. EDITOR:
Through your valuable paper I wish to say to the people in general that I understand that Mr. E. H. Phelps, but there is one thing they have been telling that I am one of them to be neglected, entirely, and music pupils, and that he taught that is the snuff dipping habit of all I know in music. Now to those who are so injurious to the health of women he has told this I can say beyond description. Yet women have been misled by Mr. Phelps and some more intimated with it than never took a music lesson from me in my life, for all the music lessons I ever took was from Miss Phelps, of Nashville, Tenn., and she was hundreds of young ladies who did and endeavor to keep the horrible, filthy habit from the young men; this shows that they are all as wrong. This outlandish habit is growing rapidly, and it is about to make any sensible man a human monster.

We had the pleasure of hearing Marion last Monday, the Hon. John Young Brown. It was a perfect feast for the mind, heart and soul of every true lover of his country. Democratic Kentucky should be proud of such a man. He is a line of elegant watches, and he is a man that will reach that office richly deserves it, and would do it with honor to the State and credit to himself.

O. S.

Freeman is making special price on ladies' watches. He has a line of elegant watches, and he is a man that will reach that office richly deserves it, and would do it with honor to the State and credit to himself.

I wish to say to the citizens of Marion, I will furnish them with light bread, persons wishing hot for supper, can leave their orders, noon, with Copher & Belt or at residence.

Mrs. M. E. McGregory

Salem.
P. Grassham went to Paducah on business on the 25th of Nov.
John Woods is visiting in Eddyville this week.
Corn gathering time about over in this community.
Livingston Court of Common Pleas convenes next month.
Hon. W. H. Green offers his fine farm for sale. It lies three miles from Salem and two miles from Pinkneyville. This land is of a rich loose black soil, almost as level as a floor, and situated in as fine a community as there is in the State of Kentucky. The house and stables are good, and everything about the place is conveniently arranged; all the fences are in good condition. Good water in abundance. Fine young orchard, etc. The church and school house are in a short distance of his residence and both in plain view. For price and terms call on or write to Mr. Green, at Salem. Mr. Green, has been in bad health for several years, and is not able to attend to farming duties which is his reason for wanting to sell.

Mrs. John Boaz, of Marion, was here last week selling books. She is a fine agent and done a good business here.

Gray & Alley drove some cattle to Marion two weeks ago, and while driving through the town one brindle cow ten years old, and one red heifer two years old, both unmarked, escaped from the drove and got away from them and have not been heard from since. Any information as to their whereabouts will be thankfully received, or if delivered to them the person so delivering will be paid what is right.

Misses Lizzie Grassham and Effie Babb went to Paducah last week.

I Linley was in Marion on last Wednesday; he brought his daughter and sister home with him to spend Thanksgiving.

Reed & Babb left Salem on the 24th of Nov. with another large drove of hogs; they started for Cincinnati.

Rev. W. B. Chrichlow preached the Thanksgiving sermon in Salem on the 24th.

On the 28th of Nov. Aheart Pierce sold and delivered to Reed & Babb at Salem 24 head of two and three year old steers for $800.00.

Another fine drove of hogs were delivered to Gray & Alley at this place on the 28th.

J. R. Finley, of Marion, was here last week.

Rev. Uley is carrying on a protracted meeting with great success at Old Salem.

Hog killing time is drawing near. Mr. James Daley, of Paducah, is visiting her relatives and friends around Salem this week.

"When ignorance is bliss, it is folly to be wise," and this is the reason that many merchants do not advertise.

We cannot see much in looking backwards, but in looking forward ten years, we can see that Marion and Salem are only five miles apart, and in that length of time Livingston county will be counted one among the wealthiest counties in the State.

Now is a bad time for young men, middle aged men, old men, poor men or rich men to go west, for old Kentucky is now on the eve of great prosperity, and this part of the State will soon be the center of all attractions.

Dr. Paris, of Levisa, was in town on the 24th.

Will and Ed Fowler were here last week; they spoke well of our town and county.

J. V. Hayden & Co. did a wholesale business in the drug line Saturday.

Women are working faithfully in the temperance cause, and are doing more than the men in keeping up the churches and Sabbath that I understand that Mr. E. H. Phelps, but there is one thing they have been telling that I am one of them to be neglected, entirely, and music pupils, and that he taught that is the snuff dipping habit of all I know in music. Now to those who are so injurious to the health of women he has told this I can say beyond description. The Ladies Emphatically Endorse "The Swinging Treadle."
This is to certify that we the undersigned ladies of Marion, Ky., are using "Smart's Swinging Treadle," and can say with all candor that it is a grand success, being all that is claimed for it. For light running it is simply superb. While the motion is increased accurate regularity is attained. This treadle is in every way superior to the old tramping treadle.

Mrs. Nellie Leffel, Miss Georgie Hall, Mrs. F. W. Loving, Mrs. Mattie Walker, Miss Laura Bogard, Mrs. Johnnie Haynes, Mrs. Bessie Henry, Miss Emma Adams, Mrs. Flora A. Bennett, Miss Jennie Clark, Miss Lou C. Field, Mrs. Anna Dorr.

Now gentlemen the article we offer bears the test of the most critical observers. Milliners, dress makers, and ladies who are fully versed in the sewing art, say that the "Swinging Treadle" is precisely the success that is claimed for it by the parties who have the territory to dispose of. Having all confidence that the treadle is in every way a most valuable improvement and will sell to the people on its merits, we have not been reluctant or backward in allowing any one to put the treadle to an actual and practical test. The territory on this treadle is now being closed out on the most reasonable terms. For particulars call on J. N. Hayden, at the Coffield House, Marion, Ky.

Watch chains a specialty at Freeman's; the greatest variety, the best goods and the lowest prices are his "watch" words now.

For the best candies, and the largest assortment of the finest chewing gum in Marion at Sisco's.

Have you seen that beautiful jewelry at Freeman's. It can not be beat in quality, quantity and prices.

Silverware in great abundance, all kinds, all prices, all styles at Freeman's; and remember that it is cheaper than ever before.

The Louisville Market.
We have had another strong week in the tobacco market. Offerings have not been heavy and buyers seemed to have a place for all offered. Good and fine Burley is growing scarcer and harder to buy every week and for these grades the market is decidedly stiff and strong—medium and lower grades are fairly steady and when in good condition meet with active demand. The plenty of out-of-order common tobacco being offered and buyers feel that they can get that kind at any time and seem in no special hurry to load up. Common lugs and trash are easy at quotations.

Dark tobacco is without change. Some of the holders of dark, express a more hopeful feeling for these types in the near future, but it is more because of the reduction of stocks than of any present improvement in bidding.

New crop is moving very slowly. The receipts this week were even less than last week up to time of closing this report. There is not enough yet being offered to fairly test the market.—Farmers Home Journal.

Louisville Tobacco Market.
Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 1,875 Hhds with receipts for the same period of 772 Hhds, sales on our market since Jan. 1st, amount to 124,219 Hhds. Sales of the crop of 1890 on our market to this date amount to 127 Hhds.

Up to this time 127 hogheads of the crop of this year have been sold on our market. Several hogheads of the better grades of dark leaf have sold at prices ranging from $5 to $7. Our market has shown rather more activity this week for all grades of old dark tobacco.

The following quotations represent our market for dark tobacco crop of 1889.

1 cheerfully testify that after taking Microbe Killer for fifteen days I am entirely cured, after being sick two years with malaria fever, and during which time I confronted other diseases, flux etc. I was attended during this time by three of the best doctors of the city without being benefited. Wm. Doherty, 10 Celeste St., New Orleans, Feb. 27, 1888. For sale by Hilliard & Woods.

How One Line Is Used.
One line has little, if any, material value in itself, but may be useful in hastening the decomposition of other substances of a vegetable nature, and by its chemical action upon insoluble minerals contained in the soil, making them available as plant food. Where soils are full of vegetable matter, lime in some form is highly beneficial, even if the land already contains sufficient lime for the use of the crops. Lime from peat works contains some properties that, if largely applied without correction, would be injurious rather than beneficial to vegetation, unless previously exposed for some months in the air. Consequently, if spread upon the ground unmix with anything else, it had better be done in the fall than in the spring. On sour, damp soils, disposed to moss or fungus growths, gas lime may be applied in moderate quantities at any time. Commonly the best way to prepare it for use will be to compost it with other substances, such as swamp muck, or in alternate layers of lime and dry earth, turning over and mixing together the contents of the heap before it is used. Mixed through piles of weeds, coarse grass, or vegetable matter of any kind in the fall, it may be made useful, but it should not be composted along with animal manures.

Lime as a Fertilizer.
H. Stewart tells in Rural New Yorker that if there is any one useful special fertilizer in use, it is lime. When lime is used in its common form, as air slaked quicklime, it furnishes the lime in a soluble condition, and so far as it goes provides needed plant food. But it is one of the most active of chemical agents. It attacks the inert organic matter in the soil and develops nitrates from them which furnish nitrogen. It makes the various silicates in the soil soluble to some extent, and thus releases potash, soda, magnesia and phosphoric acid from their combinations and makes them available. Thus it provides all the elements which are required by the crops and rarely disappoints the farmer. But it is easily seen that it adds nothing to the soil but itself, and as it draws the others from the soil it will in time rapidly exhaust it unless these others are returned.

Buy Animals.
The comparatively high prices paid by their owners on the best animals shown at fairs are not "fancy," and should not discourage any from attempting needed improvements of their own stock. The pure bred stock in many cases produces enough more from the same feed to warrant a large part of the price demanded for it. The rest is abundantly justified by its ability to reproduce its valuable characteristics in its progeny. It costs comparatively little for any farmer to grade up his stock in any desired direction, and this will all ways pay. When his grades show the expected improvement and begin to pay it will be comparatively easy to begin purchasing and breeding thoroughbred animals.
